

High-resolution Inspection Camera for Interior Surface of Sc Cavities

by

Prof. Y. Iwashita, Kyoto University, Japan

High-resolution surface inspection camera could show ever undiscovered defects where T-mapping and/or passband mode measurements suggested abnormalities. The system will be explained together with recent observations. The talk starts from brief introductions of our recent activities, which include mitigation of skin effect, special electromagnets and permanent magnet multipoles.